Military Popularity.

At all times, brilliant exploits in the field have taken strong hold of the American people, and proved a foundation of political success. This is likely to be the case now, because so many of the voters have been or are in the army. Political managers understand this, and are already setting their sails to catch the popular breeze from the immense camps of the country's brave defenders. Union men are looking towards Banks and Grant, in a few months they may have cause to turn their eyes in another direction, but they are wise enough to know that the army will never support as its political standard bearer, any one upon whose loyal fidelity there is the slightest stain, or who by his acts or association has caused a suspicion of sympathy with the rebellion, its purposes or its managers. For this reason, we believe that the recent action of certain northern Democrats, in attempting to organize a movement in favor of Gen McClellan, will utterly fail to secure army sympathy. These old politicians, feeling satisfied that opposition to the war will not suit the people, and being determined, if possible, to regain the power which they lost in 1860, seem to have concluded that the "Little General" is the only man whom they can use, they have adopted him as their pet, not because they have any respect for him, or his services, but simply from the belief that the old ties of attachment, which bound the troops to him so strongly have not yet been sundered. If they supposed that he could not get the army vote, they would never for an instant esteem him of sufficient military or political consequence, to be worthy of their support, but be would be discarded and dropped without ceremony. We should not be surprised at any time to hear that he was thus thrown over, for indications from the camps come thick and fast, that he will be repudiated by those who once admired him. The New York Evening Post has recently published several letters, which show how the tide of feeling runs. One from a sergeant is as follows

> I have been with the army from the beginning of the struggle, and, of course, some of these things seem strange to me, but by this experience I have learned much. Man-worship is at an end with us, now men will be appointed for what they actually do, we shall have confidence in men when it is found that they deserve our confidence, not before McClellan, by connecting himself with traitors (imbeciles, if not traitors) has at length lost the respect of those who were inclined to favor him in adversity. Opinions with regard to other things have also changed—opinions on that which is inseparably connected with this war—the subject of slavery

A general officer who was promoted from the ranks, for distinguished merit, writes

> You know that at one time I feared that the censures to which the Evening Post indulged respecting the "strategy" of Gen McClellan would injure its influence with the army. There is no longer any attachment to that officer among the soldiers whom he formerly commanded. He has identified himself with the Peace Democrats, and that circumstance has given the finishing blow to his declining popularity. If there be any public man whom the Army of the Potomac holds in detestation, it is Governor Seymour of your State. He is regarded as an enemy of the war, of the country, and the cause for which we have taken up arms. McClellan has made himself a political associate of Seymour, and comes in for a share of the dislike which is felt towards his principal.

With such symptoms of army feeling apparent to the eyes of Democratic leaders, we hardly see how they can expect to win with such an exhausted favorite, especially when a large part of the present army never served with McClellan, and only know him now as an endorser of Peace Democracy—a sort of political soldier of fortune which in the existing state of popular feeling is about as repulsive as anything that can be named. The army can never be humbugged by offering them such a candidate. If they are asked to vote for a soldier, they will demand that he shall have been successful, and above all that his patriotism is firm pure and undoubted

A MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY.—In the Atlantic Monthly for December is a story as terrible in its episodes as it is fearful in its warnings. Philip Nolan was in 1807 a lieutenant in the army of the west. He fell in with Burr, and was seduced by that accomplished traitor into sympathy with his schemes—during Burr's trial, Nolan was court martialed at Fort Adams, Mississippi, as much in fun as anything else, by his brother officers. When asked why sentence should not be pronounced upon him for treason, he angrily exclaimed "Damn the United States! I wish I may never hear of the United States again!" This was too much for the loyalty of the court, composed in part of Revolutionary officers, and they, after consultation, without being any longer in fun decided that his wish should be gratified. The sentence afterwards approved by President Jefferson, ordered him into the navy. Instructions were given that never in his presence again should the name of the United States be uttered, that he should never be permitted to see his native land, and that his treasonable desire should be satisfied to the very letter. For more than half a century (he died last summer in the Levant) this wretched man knew nothing of the United States. From those who surrounded him he could gain no intelligence. From all books and papers every allusion was carefully cut out, the buttons which he wore on his coat bore no insignia, he fought in the war of 1812 without knowing wherefore. He was frequently tantalized by homeward voyages, which terminated as soon as an outward bound vessel was met, he was ignorant of the growth, prosperity, and increased importance of the country he had cursed, ever craving some scrap of knowledge, all things relating to its history were carefully kept from him

He became unutterably wretched—literally homeless, until he found a country beyond the grave. Miserable in this horrible isolation, dragging out an existence prolonged beyond the usual life of man, it was not until he lay on his death bed that briefly he learned the story of his country's greatness, but happily heard nothing of the sad story of its present woe, which sprang from the fulfillment and the execution of anathemas similar to that which fell from his lips, and which was brought on by more successful conspirators than the one who sowed the seeds of treachery in his heart. He died repentant and begged that his epitaph might be "He loved his country as no other man had loved her, but no man had deserved less at her hands"

Whether or not this story be true, it is, at least, an allegory of faithful and fearful significance. It shows what would be the condition of many a man, to day, if the muttered curse, or the disloyal wish were fulfilled and gratified as it ought to be, by and for those who murmur or cherish it, who "hate and despise their country," or like far too many, who, in their heart of hearts, say amen to the awful imprecation against the land which protects and honors them

A CONCLUSIVE ANSWER.—One of our Democratic cotemporaries, mourning in sullen wrath over the fallen fortunes of its party, inquires, "when shall the nation ever again see prosperity and equal rights restored as under the rule of the Democracy?" We will not answer the question, but will refer the sad inquirer to a single sentence written by Mr Gantt, a slave-holder, a rebel Congressman and a General in the Confederate army. He knew what he was saying, when he declared—"The day is not far distant, when Arkansas will rise from the ashes of her desolation, to start on a path of higher destiny, than with negro slavery, she ever could have reached, while the re-united government, freed from this cankering sore, will be more vigorous and powerful, and more thrifty, opulent and happy than though the scourge of war had never desolated her fields, or made sorrowful her hearth stones." The same will be true of every other Southern State, when it returns to its allegiance, and the only miserable people will be the Democratic politicians and editors, who will have nothing to do but to curse the country which loved freedom better than Democracy, and sacrificed slavery to save the Union.

RECONSTRUCTION GOING ON.—The late reports from New Orleans and other cities which have been plucked out of the deadly grasp of the rebellion show that the problem of reconstruction is working itself out without waiting for Congress, President or political conventions. These cities are rapidly filling up with emigrants from the North and West, who are opening stores, shops and manufactories, and as fast as possible laying the foundations of free and intelligent communities. Among such, of course, slavery will never be encouraged, and the peculiar institution, thus let alone, will speedily disappear and never be missed, except as a nuisance, the loss of which is always accounted a blessing

STATE MILITIA ORGANIZATIONS.—The following named persons have been commissioned officers of a Cavalry Company at Lancaster, Lane county. Captain, Albert S Powers, 1st Lieut, A Bonnet, 2d Lieut, J McLean

Another cavalry company has been organized in Yamhill county and the officers commissioned as follows. Captain, Robert R Laughlin, 1st Lieut, G R Duval, 2d Lieut, Fred A Crawford

A MAMMOTH DAILY.—The Daily Sacramento Union of January 1st, contained 314,000 "ems" of new matter, at a cost of $235 00. About fifty days' work for a compositor. Money flows free as water to make that paper what it is—second to no daily newspaper in the world. So long as it is in the hands of the present proprietors it will maintain that position.—Sentinel

So everybody says in this region

It is stated that the Ironsides burns two tons of coal in an hour, when here machinery is in operation, or 48 tons a day and 16,000 tons a year, which, at a cost of $10 a ton would be $160 000 a year

S A Smith has been appointed Postmaster, at Peoria, Linn county, in place of H R. Holmes, resigned.

Mr Seward

The insurrection will [illegible] slavery [illegible] Nevertheless I am willing that the [illegible] Mr Seward [illegible]

The [illegible] Secretary Seward's—spoken a few days ago at Auburn. Are they worthy of the times or unworthy? Are they honorable or dishonorable? Are they [illegible]? The President declared on the 1st of January that the slaves are henceforth and forever free and in his letter to the Illinois Convention he declared that he would never revoke that sentiment. It stands, therefore now and prospectively as the solemn law of the land forever forbidding the enslavement of the millions whose thraldom it loosed. Now is Mr Seward content to see slavery brought back? Then he is content to see the law of the land violated and in the interest of slavery! His speech is a blow at the proclamation. He strikes the master whom he serves! He is willing to give up what the President himself never can give up! He is willing to disappoint the nation in its hope of freedom and to bring to nought all the blood [illegible] of the war. [illegible] agrees with Mr Seward. He says

Again what if the [illegible] a Union [illegible] independent sovereign States regulating their own [illegible] The New England abolitionists shall not [illegible] the South [illegible] slaveholder or his system [illegible]

Mr Seward the rebel Southern slaveholder cannot have his system of slave labor even if he chooses to keep it. He cannot keep it by [illegible] He has no choice in the matter nor has Mr Secretary Seward nor the President on the 1st of January [illegible] slavery forever out of the [illegible] of the slave holder and put it into the hands of the law. The [illegible] tyrant is not to be beckoned back into his place even by the waving of Mr Seward's gracious hand. The President has made, and the people uphold a decree which has lawfully put an end to a barbarous system. This iniquity is not to be restored even on an invitation from Auburn. It is not to be reclaimed with power even by the diplomacy of a Cabinet minister. Imagine with what surprise this speech will be read in England! After the British taunts that the American Government has no serious intent to abolish slavery—no heart in its Proclamation. How will Mr Seward's words be explained? We will explain them. They are the utterances of a man who once spoke for a great party—but who now speaks only for himself. Mr Seward is no longer a representative man. He has forfeited the confidence of his fellow countrymen who used to hang upon his words with enthusiastic delight. He has fallen lower in the estimation of his party than any other man who ever held a high station in it. Once the father of this party he has become its prodigal son. Once its oracle he has become its [illegible]. His former friends his own State—the great body of the people all have lost their own fine feeling for this changed and sinking man. All the elections—in all the loyal States—express the one mind of the people saying. Shut the door now and forever against Slavery! Mr Seward replies, in a feeble strain at Auburn. No open the door and let slavery re enter! Missouri Maryland and Tennessee all see that the time has passed for compromises and are saying. Down with slavery! Mr Seward pitifully replies. No up with it! But one man's voice is nothing among a million—and Mr Seward's speech is nothing against the will of of all the North.—Independent

HENRY WARD BEECHER LANDING MUSKETS FOR THE REBELS.—The Boston Commercial Bulletin relates the following amusing experience of Mr Beecher

"When the steamer Asia on her last trip over, reached Halifax, and the crew had begun to break out the portion of the cargo which was to be landed there (but which it afterward became too evident was to go much further South) Henry Ward Beecher and a few others got ashore to stretch their legs by a walk on the pier. The first case of goods came hard and the force on the fall and tackle was increased by the voluntary offer of the Rev Henry Ward Beecher whose additional muscle on the rope speedily brought out the case, hung on to the wharf

He was somewhat aghast, however, to find, as his friends gathered about to examine it that he had lent a hand to land a case of muskets for the Southern Confederacy

BECOMING RATIONAL.—The Quincy, Ill Herald, long the leading Democratic journal of the State, and of late, a vigorous defender of the peace policy retracts its errors and comes squarely out for the war. In an editorial headed 'Our Duty,' it acknowledges that the news of the late elections shows that the determination of the people is to fight and fight to a conclusion. From such a decision it says, "there can be no appeal and while a Democrat, we shall ever continue to hold the mirror of the Constitution to the gaze of our rulers, we for one are not disposed to close our ears to the decision nor refuse to recognize and submit to it in the spirit in which it has been made. The fiat having thus gone forth as one of the people and a faithful and patriotic journalist we accept it as our duty to make editorial effort to give it practical effect. It then urges in the warmest terms a quick and general response to the President's call for 300 000 men assuring volunteers that the entire body of their brethren without distinction of party, will shout God speed to their sword and honor to their victorious arms

A REBEL SOLDIER'S PROPOSITION.—While the 5th Maine were on picket at the Rapidan, before Gen Meade's last movement, the two armies were within plain sight and speaking distance of each other, and the men would frequently converse together. One morning Secesh says, "Hallo!" "What's wanted?" was the reply of the Maine soldier. "Well," says Secesh, "I think if it was not for these officers in the army, the war would close, for we do not want to fight, but they make us. Now let us make an agreement. If you will just make a sign thus, when one of your officers come along we will pop him over, and when one of ours comes along we will signal to you and you can shoot him!"

REBEL EXCUSE FOR SHORT RATIONS.—The Richmond papers admit that they do not furnish provisions to Union prisoners, in quantity as formerly, but say that they cannot help it, "The whole community is on starvation allowance, and families that have lived in affluence, give up the use of meat and other articles, that the authorities may feed prisoners." If this is true, it somewhat softens the charge of barbarous treatment, but it shows how heavily the burden of treason bears upon the rebels

A professor of the University of Berlin has recently published the result of his research as to the population of the earth according to which Europe contains 272,000,000 Asia, 720,000,000, Africa, 89 000,000, America, 200,000,000, and Polynesia 2 000 000, a grand total of 1,282 000,000. As in places where deaths are accurately registered, the annual mortality is at least one in forty the number of deaths must be about 32 000 000 every year, which gives 87,761 per day, 3 653 per hour, and 61 per minute, so that every second witnesses the extinction of the human life

RESTORATION.—The New York Commercial says "Edward Everett, while at Washington about December 1st, declared himself fully convinced that 'restoration day' was at hand, when the masses of the Southern people will rise against their despotic leaders, and will loyally pledge their allegiance to the Union." So mote it be.

THE SUREST REMEDY.—Ice is getting to be a universal remedy. It is now said that it not only cures but prevents sea sickness. The best remedy we know of for this disagreeable complaint is a little dry land

The three rules given by the celebrated John Hunter, for the rearing of healthy children, were—"Plenty of milk, plenty of sleep, and plenty of flannel"

BRUTAL TREATMENT OF UNION PRISONERS IN RICHMOND.—Rev George H Hammer Chaplain of the 12th Pennsylvania cavalry, who was recently released from Libby Prison, furnishes the Philadelphia Inquirer a long account of his captivity and of the sufferings of our soldiers who fall into the rebel clutch. In reference to their treatment in Libby Prison he says

UNION PRISONERS STARVED TO DEATH

"Many sink under it and falling away into living skeletons were passed over to the hospital in the other end of the building where they lived or died as circumstances might decide. How often have I seen this so often that it had long ceased to call forth special attention. Did men fall down exhausted upon the floor those stronger picked them up and strove to have them removed to the hospital. Did they die their bodies were rudely laid to one side until convenience suited them to hurry them under ground. During this time the heat was intense and the suffering from this cause alone very great. Add to this the fact that from heat and other causes the prisoners suffered greatly from dysentery aggravated by the disagreeable water we were obliged to drink and I know not indeed how we passed the summer or bore up under the accumulated woes of our situation

THE AMOUNT OF FOOD ALLOWED TO PRISONERS

Do you ask me as to the amount of food received daily by each officer? One fourth pound of very tough raw beef and bones very little over an ounce of bread very heavy and sour a little rice and in infinitesimal quantities of salt and vinegar. This was the amount of rations received though I will do the authorities the justice to say that it was hardly the amount allowed, the remaining part being appropriated by officials. However small to the appetite of the prisoner if well he could eat the whole of his day's ration at one meal and look or hunt for more. At the time of which I speak, the officers were not allowed to purchase or receive any food but that furnished by the authorities as the daily ration. The bread was very unpalatable and unwholesome the beef oftentimes taint d and sometimes evidently diseased, as we could see where tumors had been extracted. If in lieu of rice we obtained beans or peas we received with them no small quantity of animated life in the form of worms, fat and plump

INHUMAN TREATMENT OF OUR MEN

"The treatment received by the officers during this trying time was bad and only bad continually. One seemed to vie with others in their endeavors to annoy us and make our situation intolerable. Did one under this debilitating process stretch himself upon the floor during the day upon his blanket, unless he had first obtained the consent of the prison inspector to spread his blanket, and he was never present when wanted, he was rudely aroused his blanket taken from him and carried down stairs to be given to some needy rebel or placed under the saddle for one of these ruffians to ride upon. If by any means we offended his supreme highness the commandant our supply of water was cut off for half a day and night, and this during the suffocating weather of summer, or to vary the punishment and add zest to the regimen, we would be left without wood for three fourths of a day wherewith to cook our food, but then we saved our rations and had more the next day.

OFFICERS CONFINED IN DUNGEONS

"I have seen a captain of cavalry, for the simple offense of missing the spittoon and spitting upon the floor, thrown into a dark, damp dungeon for two days and nights on bread and water causing a serious inflammation of the lungs. At this time it was required that the officers should perform the most menial services connected with cooking, washing, scrubbing and the cleanliness of the rooms. Lieutenant Welch of the 87th Pennsylvania infantry lay for six weeks in a dungeon under the building, because as an orderly sergeant, acting under appointment as a lieutenant, though not yet mustered in, and of course not recognized as such he had rightly classed himself with the enlisted men. When brought up among the other officers his clothes, shoes &c, were covered with green mould. Lieut Dutton, of the 67th Pennsylvania Infantry, has been doomed to a dungeon until the close of the war and is now suffering therein for a similar offence, with the additional fact that he assumed the name of another Captain Litchfield (I am not certain of the name) of the 67th Pennsylvania, was confined in a dungeon for five or eight days on bread and water for forming a plan of escape which was frustrated

"Colonel Powell, I think of the 12th Virginia Union Cavalry, wounded severely in the back from a window in Wytheville, and left behind, was carried to Richmond and placed in the hospital. A few days after, one of the Richmond papers railed out against him in a most brutal manner, and suggested that he be executed. The same prison inspector entered the hospital, and without the knowledge of the rebel surgeons ordered him to get up from his bed and follow him. He was placed in one of the dungeons spoken of and upon asking what were the charges against him was answered, God——you you will soon find out!' Here, with a ball in his back he remained five weeks and four days part of the time without a blanket, rarely receiving any medical care, and sometimes his rations withheld. A guard was stationed constantly at the door of his cell to prevent escape or communication with others. While confined there the entry way was frequently blocked up with dead bodies, remaining there several days, and this during the heat of summer. This entry performed another important part, being the place where men and women are daily brought to receive their lawful allowance of lashes at the hands of the Prison Inspector. A letter was sent to General Winder by the Colonel asking the charges against him, and protesting against his treatment. He denied any knowledge of the matter, and suggested that, perhaps, General Jones was acquainted with the facts. He also denied any knowledge of the matter, and coolly asked to know the charges

He was released I know not how and placed among us. This officer was the victim of irresponsible authority and fiendish cruelty as inflicted by this Prison Inspector. While confined in the cell the Colonel who is a Christian, asked in writing twice for a Bible but no notice was taken of the request. One officer, taken at Gettysburg was slapped in the face by this Inspector, for saying that he thought he had no right to take from him a small fragment of shell which he had in his pocket as a relic. His acts of brutality are numberless

BRUTAL TREATMENT OF ENLISTED MEN

"I have so far only given an outline of the treatment and condition of the officers which in comparison was a favored one. I cannot describe the condition of the enlisted men, as seen by the officers and learned from sources at present nameless. Hunger bad treatment, and exposure, have done their work too surely for many brave souls who have gone up to testify at the bar of God to the barbarities practiced upon them. Many of them, also were shot by the guard upon the most frivolous pretences. Belle Isle our place of confinement, is supplied with tents only sufficient for a part of the men, the rest were compelled, during the cold nights, to pace up and down the island to keep warm and while the sun was shining they would sleep. I have seen them marched through the city barefooted bareheaded, without coats and with only the remnants of other articles of clothing

"I have seen them brought from this island in the evening, to ship them in the morning for City Point so weak from hunger and disease that they were unable to stand up in their feet. Never have I witnessed such misery and want among any class of human beings

NORTHERN NEGROES WHIPPED

"There are also there about one hundred free negroes of the North—officers servants from the army and navy. They are used at the present about the prisons or upon the fortifications around Richmond. One of the many nights spent in Libby, is deeply engraven upon my mind. A free negro of Philadelphia, captured in the navy, nearly white received three hundred and twenty five lashes in a room immediately beneath us his loud cries and pleading, penetrating every part of the building, as blow followed blow. He was then wrapped in a blanket saturated with salt water and cast into one of the dungeons for a month or more. Such scenes and cries were frequent. Those of our number who entered there as advocates of slavery, or at least sympathizers are such no more"

The Russians use English terms for the various parts of a ship, and all the orders for sailing are given in Dutch. These terms were originally engrafted in the Russian tongue by Peter the Great, who studied ship building in England, and seamanship in Holland. It was found easier to adopt these foreign terms than to invent new ones for everyday use, as they have no equivalent in Russian.

DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM HAS EFFECTED cures in numerous cases, where the most skillful physicians in this country and in Europe have been employed, and have exercised their skill in vain Cases pronounced incurable and surrendered as hopeless, leaving the patients without a single ray to enliven their gloom, have been cured by Dr Hall's Balsam, and the "victims of consumption" are now vigorous and strong as the most robust among us, And these cases are not isolated ones; they are numerous, and can be pointed out in every community where this

THERE is no other way to cure diseases but by first purifying the whole system so as to create a healthy circulation.

The first medical men of the age agree with us that no disease of any extent can be cured without using such medicines as will act directly upon the blood. Why many medical men have failed to cure chronic diseases is, because the medicines used have not been such as will act beneficially on the blood

The many thousands of bottles which have been used by the public, and the many gallons and barrels supplied to the physicians, warrant us in saying that the last two years we have been more successful with our Scovill's Blood and Liver Syrup in curing hopeless cases of chronic diseases than Love any other remedies in the hands of physicians, or before the public

It is now admitted that no combination known to the profession, acts so promptly upon diseases as our SCOVILL'S BLOOD AND LIVER SYRUP

MEETING OF THE M L SUBSCRIBERS.—On Tuesday evening, the subscribers to the Mercantile Library Fund met in goodly numbers at the U S District Court Room, and effected a temporary organization by calling Hon M P Deady to the chair, and appointing R E Knapp, Esq, Secretary. The amount subscribed upon the paper circulated by L H Wakefield, Esq, is $2,400, and he has the promise of more so soon as it is certain the effort will be successful. A resolution wa introduced, that no moneys be expended for any purpose until the subscriptions reached $3,000. The resolution was very properly tabled. After some discussion, a committee of five was appointed to report the basis upon which a permanent organization should be effected, and the meeting adjourned subject to the call of that committee. We are glad that a matter of so much moment to our city has at last taken form, and the liberality of the subscriptions has put success beyond any peradventure. With the Library already at their command, comprising some twelve or fifteen hundred volumes, beside the odd books that would gratuitously flow in from private sources, an expenditure of $1,000 the first year would secure them nearly 3,000 volumes, and pay the subscription of all the requisite periodicals and newspapers, thus leaving a wide margin for use when familiarity with the Association made its necessities apparent

RE-OPENING OF NAVIGATION.—Owing to the favorable weather yesterday, it is the intention of the O. S. N. Company to dispatch the steamer Julia, Capt Van Bergen, on a trial trip to the Cascades this morning, with the usual U. S. Mails, W. F. & Co.'s Express, freight and passengers. We hope she may be able to go through. The steamer Vancouver, Capt. Turnbull, will resume her trips to Fort Vancouver, the John H. Couch, Capt Holman, left yesterday for Monticello and Astoria, and if these boats all succeed in their trips, trade will resume its wonted life, and the sun shine on pleasant faces.

BROKE THROUGH THE PLANKING.—One of the heavy drays so profitably used in this city for the transportation of heavy freight, while crossing First street, between Washington and Stark, yesterday morning, broke through the street planking with both wheels on the near side, and was only got out by the aid of long levers and axes. Fortunately the plank remained unbroken beneath the horses and body of the wagon, or it would have been impossible to ascertain how near the centre of the earth was their resting place. The plank over our front streets should be kept as strong and as near together as possible, especially where soundings cannot be had.

FROM THE INTERIOR, OVERLAND.—Messrs. Jones & Edgar, Expressmen between Canyon City and the Dalles, arrived here yesterday, bringing Wells, Fargo & Co's Express from the latter place. When they left Canyon City, eight days ago, the weather was very moderate, no frost, and but very little snow. At the Dalles, the weather was very cold, freezing hard and snowing. A train of pack mules crossed the Columbia river on the ice, Friday. Left the Dalles on Saturday morning, at 10 o'clock, and reached the Cascades on Sunday, snowing thickly. They had to cut the ice in creeks, and then swim their horses. Slides were frequent on the trail four and five feet deep. Most of the distance from the Cascades rained heavily. Nothing was seen or heard of Messenger Holland and his party on the route, who left here on Thursday last. Mr. [illegible] was to start upon the arrival of the Express from above, which was daily expected. Dalles City is shut up, and the citizens amuse themselves as best they can. Messrs Jones and Edgar expect to return to morrow.

MINING COMPANY ELECTIONS.—On Tuesday last, the following gentlemen were elected as Directors of the Daly Gold and Silver Mining Company. D F. Bradford, C. S. Robbins, P Schuyler, jr, John McCraken, and Josiah Myrick. D. F Bradford, President, and J. Myrick, Secretary.

The following gentlemen were elected as Directors of the Columbia Gold and Silver Mining Company. J C Ainsworth, T. A. Davis, John McCraken, E. W. Tracy, and H Green. John McCraken was elected President, and T. A Davis, Secretary.

RISE OF THE RIVER.—Yesterday morning the Willamette commenced rising, and at 3 P. M., the waters had attained a hight of 4 feet inches over the marks of the previous day. From 3 o'clock there was a gradual recession, and it is probable that the swollen tributaries fed by the late rains are becoming exhausted. A larger quantity of drift stuff, comprising many large trees with their wide-spreading roots, passed down by the city during the day, than has been seen since the wet season commenced

FROM MONTICELLO.—The steamer Cowlitz, Capt Olson, arrived from Monticello yesterday about noon, having left that place Tuesday morning at 8 o clock. She reports no ice in the Cowlitz, but the Columbia as full in many places, rendering navigation difficult and dangerous. The indications are favorable, however, that all traces of the late cold snap will speedily disappear. We understand that she will start on her return trip this morning

GOOD DAY FOR GAME.—Messrs. H C. Hill and D Monnastes spent eight hours among the canvas backs a short distance down river, yesterday, and returned with seventy five fat fellows, of the flavor of which we shall know more after dinner to day, as a couple of brace were generously devoted to that end, for all of which we feather the rim of "our hat."

CARD.

Whereas, on the morning of the 22d day of November last I the undersigned, Louis B Robinson was arrested at the instance of E Miller, of this city and charged with receiving goods under false pretences I would respectfully ask the indulgence of the public and their attention to this statement

Whilst engaged with my own affairs and business at Oregon City, the Sheriff arrested me upon the sworn complaint of the said E Miller Without warning or word of explanation I was taken and upon the oath of this man, my papers were invaded their privacy exposed, and my rights as a citizen grievously outraged

In charge of the officer I was brought to this city and incarcerated in the common jail of the county during twenty four hours—and for what? Let E Miller answer, but he cannot

On the 23d inst the day following my arrest, I appeared before a magistrate of the county ready for trial ready and anxious to meet my accuser but he dared not face me in a court of justice The case was called but no prosecutor appeared and in law and in justice the magistrate felt bound to and did discharge me from custody

Without right I was arrested and deprived of my liberty and comfort My accuser proved his character by failing to appear in the case and acknowledged his accusation groundless and without foundation I have been greatly abused in the premises, my name resting under the momentary cloud this man Miller could raise by reason of his long residence here, and being richer than myself But his conduct shall not go unsearched, and for this reason whilst praying the pardon of the public for appearing before them in print do I earnestly ask the people and my friends to withhold their opinion of my merits until the proper courts, whose protection I have asked, shall decide between the oppressor and the oppressed

LOUIS B ROBINSON

Portland, Jan 12th, 1864

IT IS AN ESTABLISHED FACT —That from time immemorial there has existed certain laws of fashion, which all acknowledge, and to which all pay due reverence Men bow reverently to the fickle goddess, and the ladies yield gracefully to her supreme sway This season, as an agreeable change from the styles of the last, the ladies have for a new feature the fashion of embroidering and braiding all outer garments, and assuredly it is a most beautiful and elegant style of trimming, and affords a wide scope for the exhibition of their good taste and skill It is also the fashion for ladies to execute all this elaborate work by the aid of a Sewing Machine, and the constant use to which ever "Grover & Baker" is now applied by its fair owner, is certain evidence that they are not unprepared for the emergency, and have an unfailing friend on whom they can rely to sustain them in the crisis, for to the "Grover & Baker alone can they apply to execute the requirements of the law as laid down in Frank Leslie's, Godey s and other good authorities

The Two Sharpshooters

Two men went out from the fire-lit camp
In the autumn midnight gray,
Over the quaking, croaking swamp,
To the edge of the woodland still and damp
With rifle and spade went they

A hooting owl wailed out to its young,
And a picket stood as still
In the meadow below as the shadow flung
By the beaded tent lights thickly strung
On the silver threaded rill

'Twas long ere the picket moved away,
And there was no time to lose
The pits must be dug by the dawn of day
Said one "We are digging graves I say;"
The other one whispered, "Whose?

With the morning light a column of steel
Moved upward along the hill
Toward the hidden pits, but a double peal
Close in the front made the column reel
A moment, and then stand still

The check won a battle field that day,
On the morrow the dead were laid
Head to foot in a trench of clay,
But two apart in the front that lay
Were buried without a spade

A Spicy Letter.

In the San Jose Mercury we find two letters—one from a soldier in one of the California regiments in New Mexico, to a lady of San Jose, to whom he had been engaged to be married, but whom he left very unceremoniously, enlisted in the army, and never sent word or note to his affianced for two long years The lady is now, according to the Mercury, a resident of Sacramento. Her reply, with a mere change of name, is as follows

Sir—In your letter, just received by me, after you have been more than two years absent you say "I would have written to you sooner, but we have been marching day and night since we left therefore, you must excuse me for delaying it so long" A day and night march for two years' duration, is a performance of such extraordinary magnitude that you will not think me unreasonable if, before excusing you, I require a certificate of the fact from your commanding officer You congratulate yourself that your ambition to go to the war "makes up" for breaking your promise of marriage to me. The pure patriotism of a Union soldier is laudable, indeed, but a man who can be false to a woman is not very likely in my opinion, to be true to his country, therefore, I mistrust that when you enlisted in the army you were actuated by quite other motives than a laudable ambition to assist the Government.

I suspect that you have been playing the hypocrite in the army, as you did in your courtship; and it is only owing to the fact that your regiment has been kept among the the Apaches that you have not showed your true colors before this I expect that as soon as the opportunity occurs you will desert to the rebels, with such army secrets as you can take with you. A man mean enough to desert a woman, whom he has cajoled into loving him, is quite fit to divulge the love secrets that were sacred to her he deceived; so too, you can carry to the rebels (who will despise you for your baseness) the secrets learned while pretending to love and protect your afflicted country.

Your offer to send me four or five hundred dollars, to "keep me" until your return, is probably as sincere as your offer of marriage, made so many years ago. What do you suppose has "kept" me during the long time that has elapsed since your desertion? But I need not ask this question—knowing that to such as you it must be a matter of indifference whether the orphan girl you promised to marry, has earned a scanty living by drudgery, or, made desperate by neglect and want, sought her bread by a life of shame Don't offer money to me, you hypocrite, use it instead to pay your passage back to Ohio, where, for your pa's sake, I trust you will soon return, "a wiser, if not a happier man."

JENNIE C BARTON

P S—You perceive by this signature that I am married Your two years silence does not indicate much anxiety concerning my welfare, yet, while I am writing, I may as well add that I am not only married, but have a baby, the father of which is so kind a husband, so true to me, and in every way so worthy of my respect and affection, that I cannot think of him and you in connection without devoutly thanking God that my baby is not your baby.

PRACTICAL JOKE AT SARATOGA.—Burleigh, the New York correspondent of the Boston Journal, is at Saratoga, and gives the following specimen of the practical joking with which the visitors there amuse themselves:

We have some wide awake men here, and they are disposed to have some fun. As a specimen, a soldier had a horse that he proposed to sell in a raffle. Quite willing to aid, the gentlemen took shares in the horse till all were sold. Among the number, was a Mr White, of New York It was proposed to make Mr. White think he had drawn the prize, though he did not come within a rifle shot of it. A plan was laid Mr White was called out of the dining room and his good fortune told him Ten dollars' worth of champagne was drank at his expense, and he was congratulated on his luck The next day he found a bill in his box for $18, for halter, blanket and attendance, which he paid with reluctance, saying the old horse would eat himself up. In the meantime a horse—one of the most forlorn animals ever seen—was hired at a cost of four dollars to represent the horse that was drawn. A rope halter about the size of a cable, and a bit of rag carpet stood in stead of the blanket and halter, for which $18 had been paid. A photograph of the animal was taken and circulated among the lucky man's friends, and when he went to view the prize, quite a crowd of New York merchants went as an escort. The animal was led out, and the consternation, rage, indignation of the drawer, the roars and shouts from his friends, can't be written The bill was presented and paid He tried to give the horse away and no one would take him, and finally by a generous donation to the hostler, the horse was taken off his hands. That night Mr. White left for New York, ignorant of the hoax played upon him, resolved that before he would pay one dollar in a raffle for a horse he would see what sort of an animal he is going to draw.

GETTING THINGS CHEAP —A six foot three man went into a shop in Worcester lately, asking for "whirlers"—stockings without feet Store hadn't got em, had got first rate big stockings with feet "How much?" said the customer "Four and nine pence," he was told "Can you cut the feet off?" "Oh certainly" "Then just do it" It was done—and so was the shopkeeper, for the man took up the impromptu whirlers, laid down one and six pence (he said he never gave any more,) and was permitted to go This is something like the London sweep who took up a piece of currant pudding and asked whether a half penny wouldn't pay for this lump of speckled stuff, and was allowed to depart with his sooted sustenance, or the little boy who stuck his finger into a pie, and holding it up, inquired, "How much for this damaged tart?"

SINFUL HABITS —Be not too slow in the breaking of a sinful custom, a quick courageous resolution is better than a gradual deliberation, in such a combat he is the bravest soldier that lays about him without fear or wit. Wit pleads fear disheartens, he that would kill Hydra had better strike off one neck than five heads, fell the tree and the branches are soon cut off —Quarles.

A WIFE'S PORTRAIT —The ideal wife of an Englishman has been often painted, but the real far exceeds her When Ulric von Hutten wrote to Frederick, he painted such a portrait as must have made that staunch advocate for the marriage of the clergy glow with admiration "Da mihi uxorem" he commences 'Get me a wife, Frederick, after my own heart, such as you know I should like, mild, young, fairly educated, modest, patient, one with whom I may joke and play and yet be serious, to whom I may babble and talk, mixing hearty fun and kisses together, one whose presence will lighten my anxiety, and soften the tumult of my cares'

To The Public.

I WOULD HEREBY CALL THE ATTENTION of the public to the fact that on the first of May 1864, they will be called upon by the United States Assessors, to make statement of Income for the year 1863 and as the year 1863 is just ended it would be well for every one to make up their accounts for said year, while every thing is fresh in their memory, and be ready to make statement when called upon by the Assessor

Under the ruling of the Commissioner of Internal revenue, persons can only deduct expenses for repairs etc from the amount received from the same property on which such expenditure have been made For instance—a person receives $500 for rents he can only deduct that amount all that is necessary to repair such property from which rents were derived the same rule applies to steamboats saw mills and other like property but all monies derived from interest on notes, Bonds Mortgages and from dividends, must be returned as Income although a portion or the whole has been expended in repairing buildings steam boats, etc

If persons will prepare their accounts and statements showing amounts received and the source from which derived amount expended and for what purpose, then with the forms and blanks which will be furnished them by the Assessor a correct return can be made

INDUCED by the extensive sale and universal popularity of Hoofland's German Bitters (purely vegetable,) hosts of ignorant Quacks and unscrupulous adventurers have opened upon suffering humanity the flood gates of Nostrums in the shape of poor Whisky, vilely compounded with injurious drugs and christened Tonics, Stomachics and Bitters

Beware of the innumerable array of Alcoholic preparations in plethoric bottles and big bellied kegs, under the modest appellation of Bitters which instead of curing only aggravate disease, and leave the disappointed sufferer in despair

From Rev J Newton Brown D D, Editor of the Encyclopædia of Religious Knowledge

Although not disposed to favor or recommend Patent Medicines in general, through distrust of their ingredients and effects I yet know of no sufficient reasons why a man may not testify to the benefits he believes himself to have received from any simple preparation, in the hope that he may thus contribute to the benefit of others

I do this the more readily in regard to Hoofland's German Bitters prepared by Dr C M Jackson, of this city, because I was prejudiced against them for many years, under the impression that they were chiefly an alcoholic mixture I am indebted to my friend Robert Shoemaker, Esq for the removal of this prejudice by proper tests, and for encouragement to try them when suffering from great and long continued debility The use of three bottles of these Bitters, at the beginning of the present year, was followed by evident relief and restoration to a degree of bodily and mental vigor which I had not felt for six months before and had almost despaired of regaining I, therefore thank God and my friend for directing me to the use of them

ATTENTION, SOLDIERS!

AND THE FRIENDS OF SOLDIERS

We call the attention of all having relations or friends in the army to the fact that "HOOFLAND'S German Bitters" will cure nine-tenths of the diseases induced by exposures and privations incident to camp life In the lists, published almost daily in the newspapers, on the arrival of the sick, it will be noticed that a very large proportion are suffering from debility Every case of that kind can be readily cured by Hoofland's German Bitters Diseases resulting from disorders of the digestive organs are speedily removed We have no hesitation in stating that, if these Bitters were freely used among our soldiers hundreds of lives might be saved that otherwise will be lost

We call particular attention to the following remarkable and well authenticated cure of one of the nation's heroes, whose life, to use his own language, "has been saved by the Bitters"

PHILADELPHIA, August 23, 1862.

Messrs Jones & Evans—Well gentlemen, your Hoofland's German Bitters has saved my life There is no mistake in this It is vouched for by numbers of my comrades, some of whose names are appended, and who were fully cognizant of all the circumstances of my case. I am, and have been for the last four years, a member of Sherman's celebrated battery and under the immediate command of Captain R B Ayres Through the exposure attendant upon my arduous duties, I was attacked in November last with inflammation of the lungs, and was for seventy two days in the hospital This was followed by great debility, heightened by an attack of dysentery I was then removed from the White House and sent to this city on board the steamer State of Maine, from which I landed on the 28th of June Since that time I have been about as low as one could be and still retain a spark of vitality For a week or more I was scarcely able to swallow anything, and if I did force a morsel down, it was immediately thrown up again

I could not even keep a glass of water on my stomach Life could not last under these circumstances, and accordingly the physicians who had been working faithfully, though unsuccessfully to rescue me from the grasp of the dread Archer frankly told me they could do no more for me and advised me to see a clergyman, and to make such disposition of my limited funds as best suited me An acquaintance who visited me at the hospital Mr Frederick Steinbron, of Sixth below Arch Street advised me, as a forlorn hope to try your Bitters and kindly procured a bottle From the time I commenced taking them the gloomy shadow of death receded, and I am now, thank God for it, getting better Though I have taken but two bottles I have gained ten pounds, and I feel sanguine of being permitted to rejoin my wife and daughter from whom I have heard nothing for eighteen months, for, gentlemen, I am a loyal Virginian from the vicinity of Front Royal To your invaluable Bitters I owe the certainty of life which has taken the place of vague fears—to your Bitters will I owe the glorious privilege of again clasping to my bosom those who are dearest to me in life

Very truly yours, · ISAAC MALONE

We fully concur in the truth of the above statement, as we had despaired of seeing our comrade, Mr Malone restored to life
